

I currently receive more robo calls than actual calls. This enough of a plague to deal with. But when I receive a voicemail, it's usually from family or my doctor. I believe it is unconscionable that Republicans want to allow our voicemail to be flooded by unsolicited messages which we will have to plow through to get to important ones. Please don't allow this invasion of our privacy. Republicans should be ashamed to propose such easing of regulations. We have endless tv ads, thousands of sales emails, pop-up messages on the internet and robo calls. Isn't that enough? Please hold the line on this. No to direct to voicemail messages.
